I have worked with the student on his or her capstone project and am satisfied that it meets all criteria listed below. The completed capstone project has demonstrated that the student: <ul style="list-style-type: none"> Engaged in scholarship that was largely independently driven (but under my mentorship) Holds exceptional skill or knowledge in his or her chosen area of study. This "area" need not be a specialization within a major/discipline. A student may do an interdisciplinary (or otherwise broader) piece of scholarship Makes an original scholarship contribution. We define scholarship broadly to include original research, new ideas, integration of ideas, and creative expression Appropriately cites sources Understands how the project is relevant to the field or the broader community Displays exceptional writing skills
